WHITHER OUR SOIL FERTILITY?

Old timers love to tell about the 45 and 50 bushel crops of wheat which were harvested in this district in the "early days", and while some of us may feel that they use a little poetic license in establishing the figures, most of us know that crops in general are "not as good as they used to be."

When we consider the improved varieties of grain that are now available and the greatly improved tillage methods, which enable the farmer to get his crop in as close to the proper time as possible, and add to these the improved methods of fertilization and control, the new fungicides, and other advantages, we come to the unpleasant but wise conclusion that there is some more basic cause for our lowered yields.

The residual moisture which the prairies carried over from their virgin state does not provide the answer fully... but the fertility which had been gathered through years of growing grass, the fibre and humus which this grass had left and its security from wind and water erosion in the natural state does provide the answer.

That our soil is "not what it was" is brought clearly to light in the booklet just issued by the Alberta Wheat Pool and prepared by Leonard D. Nesbitt. Entitled "Save the Soil" this publication is comprised of quotations from soil and agricultural authorities from various parts of the prairies in which they set forth scientific findings and well-founded conclusions which indicate that the organic content of farmlands has been reduced by one to three quarters depending upon the length of time it has been cropped, and the general methods which have been used. Most extreme losses noted, other than in the completely eroded areas, were in the farm lands of Manitoba, where cropping has been going on for 40 to 70 years, and where for most of that time, the old-fashioned methods of cultivation and crop rotation have been used.

The booklet, which can easily be read at one sitting, points out the dangers with which we are faced, the errors in cultivation methods and rotations which have brought about the dangers, and the remedies which can be applied to bring our soil back into good condition.

While not by any means a complete treatise on the subject, the information contained is good food for thought, and may do much to stimulate a lively interest in this important subject.

THE POWER TO HEAL

"All the beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single lovely action."—James Russell Lowell.

An acquaintance of yours is confined to his sickbed. You have always liked the man, on hearing of his trouble, feel most sympathetic. Perhaps you consider paying him a visit, but decide not to, reasoning that he has a host of closer friends and a family to call on him. So you just feel sorry for him and let it go at that, comforting yourself with the knowledge that your sentiment is sincere. But the single lovely action of going physically to his bedside is all the sick man can understand of your sentiment. Once you convert sentiment into action and pay the visit, he will be thrilled, encouraged, and definitely helped on the road to recovery.—James T. Mangano.

THE WAY TO FIGHT COMMUNISM WHY NOT ATTEMPT A REMEDY?

We are constantly beseeched, in this day and age, with appeals to outlaw Communism, to make the party illegal, and to prosecute and persecute those who are commonly grouped under the heading of "fellow-travellers."

We have not yet fully decided what reason lies behind this agitation which is heard in the halls or parliament and on the street corners of our villages and hamlets; we lean to the opinion that it is a form of mass hysteria prompted by world conditions although there is the possibility that there is a more sinister motivation. Whatever the reason, we don't think it is a very sensible proposal; while we give some of its advocates full credit for sincerity of purpose we still feel that the methods proposed would have an effect directly opposite to that which is desired. And we also feel that there is a more efficient and simpler means of combating the Red menace close to our hand at all times.

History, if it teaches us anything at all, teaches that persecution fails to accomplish its aims. The history of the early Christian church is, of course, the outstanding example of the truth of this statement, but history is full of other examples—for instance, the attempted extermination of the Jewish race by the fanatical power hanger during the recent war. Out of that conflict, despite the loss of millions of Jews, has come the Jewish nation to fulfill a long-held dream of the Israeli people for a national home of their own.

The remedy which we would propose to combat the spread of Communism is so simple that it is generally overlooked—it is to make our democracy work, to make it function in such a manner that no sensible person could be attracted by the will-o-the-wisp intangibles with which Communism today seeks to attract idealists and men of goodwill. Let us not close our eyes to the weaknesses in our present system—the Reds don't. They even capitalize on them with considerable success in many cases. Make no mistake about it, there are plenty of weaknesses to be seen by everyone who desires to look for them. When people can survive in a land of abundance, where able-bodied men walk our streets seeking work in a country which needs every skill and every effort to develop its potentialities—when any of these things happen, there is a weakness in our system. That does not mean, for one moment, that the system itself is incapable of efficient operation; it does mean that considerable research and effort is required to make it function properly—and, we might add, a little more goodwill and application of the golden rule. When the horn on your car fails to function, you don't scrap the car; you put on a new and better horn. Let's apply the same principle to our democratic process; let's plug the holes and strengthen the weak spots; let's bring to bear a little of the fanatical effort which some of the Red supporters put into their attempts to make the Red system work. If this is done, we feel convinced, no prosecution or outlawing of the Communist party will be necessary—the results will be so far ahead of anything dreamed of in Moscow that the support of Red programs will wither like a plant cut down for lack of light and water. It's cheaper than persecution, it holds more promise of success, and it's a thoroughly democratic process. Why not try it?—The Leduc Representative.

A VERY DIFFICULT DECISION

Joe Rutledge Says

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

"What Went Ye Out To See?"

It sometimes is hard to retain the deeply-held conviction that freedom of speech—whatever the word spoken—is the essential of all freedom. It is difficult because this freedom is used to support such tawdry, such vicious, such insincere causes, promoted by such deluded if not designing men.

Can anyone believe that the Very Reverend Hewitt Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, or his small Canadian lieutenant, the Rev. James G. Endicott, are more deeply concerned for the peace of the world than are the rest of us, or that such concern as they have is not touched by the meagre vanity of working for a peace of their own devising?

Can anyone believe that the thousands who attended the recent meeting at Massey Hall, Toronto, to hear the "Red Dean" speak, came with sincere and questioning and open minds, or can they doubt that they came otherwise than in the spirit in which the Very Reverend Dean and his less impressive counterpart set out on their various journeys, with a mind open to the slightest wanted to see, the words it wanted to hear, and the delusions it wanted to embrace?

Can anyone believe that when Dr. Johnson blandly states that "everything points to the Soviet Union wanting peace," that "they talk peace, think peace and work for peace," that "Britain has repeatedly shown his willingness to talk peace with the western powers have scorned his offer," he is not parroting views that have been presented to a vain and glib man ready, if not eager, to be confused and deluded?

On another occasion the Reverend Dean said: "Nothing strikes the visitor to the Soviet Union more forcibly than the absence of fear," a statement hard to square with the reports of those escaped from behind the Iron Curtain. Or again: "I know of no country where human life is regarded so highly as in the Soviet Union," and "The things done in Eastern Europe should be welcomed as they are the things we have been preaching about for two thousand years."

With all the evidence of detached and dispassionate witnesses, with the tragic story of Cardinal Mindszenty, and the record of the Communist attitude to the Christian church before us, such statements should be the measure of the heights and depths of the "Red Dean's" delusions, a commentary on the open-mindedness of those who eagerly listen to him and on the purpose of the Canadian Peace Congress who, in the name of peace, bring delusion, or worse, to be our inspiration and our guide.

OTTAWA, May — (CP) — Canada's defence forces are steadily weeding out those of its members inclined toward Communism and are enacting new legislative machinery to make the tenets of Communism a military crime punishable by a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

This disclosure came out of a parliament last week that also divulged that police still are investigating a number of people linked with the 1946 Soviet spy trials and with a notebook that carried the name of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, British atom spy, sentenced to a prison term of 14 years.

The tightening up of military defence law is a new departure and indicates broadening out of Canadian statutory machinery to parallel actions taken by other countries against the infiltration of Communist doctrine.

Action to modernize the defence legislation was taken by the Commons Defence Committee, which, wedded through a hasty bill and approved a clause which takes the place of a one-word offence known as sedition.

It provides for penalties up to life imprisonment for persons liable to military law who "publish or circulate any writing, printing or document in which it is advocated, or who teaches or advocates, the use, without the authority of law, of force as a means of accomplishing any governmental change within Canada."

Life imprisonment is the top penalty, but there are numerous other punishments which can be imposed, including the dismissal of the soldier, sailor or flier from the service.

The disclosure that police still are probing remnants of the 1949 spy inquiry came from Justice Minister Garson, who asked the House not to press for details, because of the nature of the investigation.

He declared, however, that the investigations for the most part did not concern civil servants now in service, although he was vague about the fact about whether they might concern those who had been in service since 1945 and since then have been dismissed.

Freight Rates Climb

A new climb in freight rates was authorized last week, bringing to 50 per cent the total increase allowed the railways since last March. Last week's increase of 3.4 per cent was estimated to be sufficient to bring the railways' additional revenue of about $18,000,000 a year.

But the freight-rates battle is not over. The next round will be an appeal to the cabinet by seven provinces—not including Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland—against the new rate increase.

The provinces not only are expected to appeal against the rate climb but also attempt to prevent it from coming into force. The new increase is due to become effective June 5.

The railways themselves are taking a different view. With a new increase in costs through greater wage demands already on the horizon, it is expected they will launch a further appeal for another rate boost, the third such application since the Second World War.

The wage increases have not yet been granted, but railway employees have threatened to go on strike unless they get wage boosts amounting to about $15,000 a year.

Comment and Notes of Current Interest to Farmers

Master Farm Family Award

In a previous issue of these notes I stated that Master Farm Family applications must be made by 1 farmer. This should have read 3 farmers must nominate a fourth for this award. The objective of this Provincial award is fourfold:

1. To honor farm families who have achieved notable success in farming, homesteading and citizenship.
2. To provide a practical demonstration of farm and family progress and approved practices that bring success.
3. To draw attention to the advantages of farming as a vocation and to the wholesome and dignified of rural life.
4. To set before the rising generation the higher ideals of agriculture and the opportunities in rural citizenship.

To be eligible for nomination to this award, farm families must fulfill the following requirements:

1. The family must be Canadian Citizens.
2. The head of the family must be the owner-operator or lease-operator of the farm.
3. The head of the family must have spent at least (25) twenty consecutive years in actual operation of a farm. (In cases of veterans absence on military service will be accepted in lieu.)

Persons operated under business agreements involving other than members of the family are not eligible for this award nor no family whose standing has been made possible by receipt of revenue from other sources other than farming will be eligible.

Nominations will be made on farms provided by this office and must be returned to this office by July 1.

This master farm family award provides an opportunity for communities to honor their better farmers by a nomination into this Provincial award.

Feed Crops Needed

The Hon. D. A. Ure, Minister of Agriculture, is again urging farmers to plant more grasses and legumes and feed crops in 1950, in order to assure an adequate supply of hay and feed grains. The Minister points out that the live stock industry is of such importance in the agricultural welfare of this Province that it should not be jeopardized by the possibility of a feed shortage. At the present time the live stock industry particularly is enjoying a period of considerable prosperity which might suffer seriously if adequate feed supplies were not available. Mr. Ure points out that reserves of feed, both hay and grain, are somewhat below normal in many districts due to the short crop in 1949 and to the recent long cold winter during which supplies were largely consumed. The sowing of more land to grass and hay crops not only assures a more permanent feed supply, but assists in the conservation of the soil and the control of weeds, as well.

The provision of a feed reserve sufficient for at least one year to cover a "miser" by many live stock owners. No one who depends on his live stock for any important portion of his annual revenue can ignore the need for adequate reserves of feed. Farmers who need assistance in planning their operations to provide sufficient feed will find every District Agriculture ready to help, or information and suggestions may be secured from the Dept. of Agriculture.

Farmstead And Home Improvement Field Day

On June 5 at the farm of Felle Meunier, 2 miles north and 4 mile west of Morinville, an event of outstanding interest will take place. A farmstead and home improvement field day, something new in the annals of the west, will be sponsored by the Agricultural Service Board of the MD of Morinville in co-operation with the Alberta Department of Agriculture. Trees will be planted, buildings painted, a water system installed in the house and piggery, and the kitchen replanned and redecorated.

This is quite a project for one day, but District Agriculture J. M. Fontaine who has had much to do with the introduction of the idea, advises that plenty of help will be available for the demonstration. The Edmonton firms of Laub and Borton, the Nest Painters and Decorators, the Proctor Construction Company, and Construction Products Ltd., will be among those assisting with labour and materials. The tree planting project will be conducted by the Alberta Department of Agriculture. This unique field day will not only see the work in progress but will be able to discuss with agricultural and home owners specialists present, ways and means of applying the principles demonstrated to their own farms. It is expected that this event will provide an incentive for many of the district farmers to paint their buildings, bring water into their homes, plant trees and generally improve their farmsteads.

Annual Flowers For The Farm Home

Annual flowers in a wide range of form and colour are an abundant source of enjoyment and provide relaxation for the rural dweller and at the Experimental Station, Beaverlodge, Alta., an effort has been made to select those varieties possessing hardiness and character. While primarily designed for areas having short growing seasons, the varieties recommended may prove valuable to many interested in beautifying the home grounds.

Annual flowers are usually divided into three classes, namely bedding, bedding and background types. Sweet alyssum, lobelia and dwarf petunias. Other popular bedding annuals include the China aster variety Queen of the Market and the Princess; variously coloured. Ten Weeks stock; single varieties of petunias as: Rosy Morn, Snow Queen and Velvet Ball, the new red petunia, Firechief and also

The pot marigold has long been a favourite for bedding purposes, valuable for its long season of bloom and for cutting. It can be obtained in a choice variety of colours, two improved forms being the Yellow Colossal and a brilliant orange called the Campfire. Improved variety, as well as improved types of dwarf and African marigolds. Other popular bedding annuals include the China aster variety Queen of the Market and the Princess; variously coloured. Ten Weeks stock; single varieties of petunias as: Rosy Morn, Snow Queen and Velvet Ball, the new red petunia, Firechief and also

SEEDING GRASSES AND LEGUMES

Sweet clover seed should be well scarified. When purchased from a seed house, the seed is already scarified. Home grown seed may be scarified by running it through a feed strainer with the plate set just far enough apart so as not to grind more than a small portion of the seed.

Sweet clover and alfalfa should both be inoculated with bacteria culture just before seeding. Such inoculated seed should not be mixed with grains that have been treated with Ceresan or similar products for smut control. Bacterial culture for inoculating seed is available from seed companies and directions for applying it are provided by the supplier.

Stubble land is usually firm enough for a seeded and it eliminates the danger of soil drifting. Sweet clover should only be sown, and that as soon as it is possible to get on the land. When seeding alfalfa in the fall it should only be done just prior to freezing weather, and that as soon as it is possible to get on the land. Sweet clover should be seeded either in early September (if moisture conditions are good) or just prior to freezing (third or fourth week in October). In the drier areas of the west, fall seeding has proven consistently more successful than early spring seeding.

Shallow seeding of grass and legume seeds is absolutely essential. When using a grain drill, it is possible to obtain this shallow seeding only when the land is firm and there is practically no pressure on the discs. Seed that is broadcast must be covered by harrowing or light single discing.

Eight pounds per acre for crested wheat, slender wheat, and bromegrass is a recommended rate of seeding. Mixtures of eight pounds bromegrass and two pounds alfalfa or five pounds bromegrass, three pounds crested wheat and two pounds alfalfa have given favorable results where moisture conditions are favorable. Crested wheat grass is most drought tolerant. A greater seed rate is valuable in seeding the small seeded crops. The ordinary grain drill can be used. One pound of the lighter seeds may be mixed with three pounds cracked grain for seeding.

In the drier parts of the west, seeding without a nurse crop gives best results. However, where moisture is ample, flax, wheat, oats, or barley may be used as nurse crops. The nurse crop should be seeded at one-half the regular rate and cut early for green feed. To avoid seeding the grass or legume too deeply, the nurse crop can be seeded alone at the usual depth, and then the forage crop sown crosswise at the shallowest depth.

Bang's Disease

The act of Parliament that sets up the definition and administration of Bangs Free Areas was passed in March 1949, and amended in 1950. Under the present legislation the area set up here would be for compulsory vaccination for a period of five years to be followed by a blood test at the end of that time, or such other as deemed practical by the Minister of Agriculture. During those five years, regulations dealing with the following would be in force:

- (a) Compulsory calfhood vaccination.

Colossal Shades of Rose, an all-double petunia unsurpassed in size and quality of bloom. Other well-known bedding favorites that might be listed are the snapdragon, butterfly flower, night scented stock, pansy, candytuft, salvia (tender) and California poppy.

Suitable background annual flower types are the sweet pea, burning bush, sinilia (tender) and flowering tobacco (N. affinis). This last being included primarily for its fragrance, as are also the old-fashioned mimosa and the night-scented stock among the bedding plants.

Experience at Beaverlodge has shown that certain varieties should be seeded indoors and transplanted and these include the lobelia, petunia, snap dragon, China aster, Ten Weeks stock, marigold, pansy, burning bush, flowering tobacco, sinilia and salvia. Varieties which may be seeded out-of-doors if desired are sweet alyssum, pot marigold, California poppy, candytuft, mimosa and sweet pea.

Municipal District of Wainwright, No. 61 Notice to Residents

Section 28 of the Regulations for the prevention, notification and control of communicable diseases reads as follows:—

"Whenever a householder ascertains or has reason to suspect that a person within his family or household is infected with any notifiable disease, he shall within twelve hours give notice in writing as follows:—

1. In health District to the Local Board or employee of the Board."

All persons living in Ranges 1 and 2, excepting there-out the village of Chauvin, shall report such notifiable disease to Dr. A. R. H. Oakley, Chauvin, Ranges 3 to 9 inclusive excepting there-out the villages of Edgerton and Irma and the Town of Wainwright, shall report to Dr. J. D. Wallace, Wainwright, or any persons living in the area of the Municipal District may contact Miss L. Tweedy, R.N., Wainwright School Division No. 32, Wainwright.

Chas. Wilbraham, Secretary, Local Board of Health.

All vaccinated calves would be ear tagged and certificates issued for each animal.

(b) Branding of reactors found on private test. Privately tested animals during the five year vaccination period that reacted would be branded "B" on the right jaw.

(c) No milk from reacting cattle or infected premises can be sold for human consumption unless pasteurized.

(d) Control over Auction Sales. No cattle sold at public auction without a permit.

(e) Control over Community Pastures. These are the greatest spreaders of Bangs from one herd to another and any Community Pasture can set up by-laws for the testing and control inside their area.

This legislation is particularly designed to build up a resistance in cattle in any particular area at the least possible cost to the individual stockman. As well as building up herds resistant to the disease it also gives control over the spread of the disease and the spread of disease to humans through affected milk.

If the petition that will be circulated early in June meets with a favorable response and over 213 of our cattle owners sign in favor of the M.L. Wainwright from the first such area set out in the Province of Alberta. With the present nucleus of over 2000 head of vaccinated stock here we will have a good start on any other district and should result in a keen demand from other districts to buy breeding stock here.

Vaccination work will be done for 75¢ per head. It will be the individual farmers responsibility to have the cattle in and have some method of holding the calves preferably in a small chute so that work can progress as quickly as possible. The work will be organized by districts and in most cases one man in the community will be delegated to keep his neighbors informed of when the Veterinarian will be around. There will be 5000 or more calves to vaccinate every fall so that holdups must be avoided.

Next weeks article, a discussion on the human health angle and the transference of Bang's disease to humans in the form of Undulant Fever in the Municipality and the experience of these people would I'm sure, indicate that we must have a method of control so that the disease will not spread.

voice of an archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise first; then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air; and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Wherefore comfort one another with these words." 1 Thes.

LIBRARY NOTES

"The Dream-Gate" by Marcus Bach
The gate at the end of the colony road stood like a cutting between "Little Mike" and "The World" between him and the answers to his questions about the will of the Almighty.

Though the gate was not locked, few adults, and none of the children of Old Portage Colony in South Dakota ever ventured outside or knew what the rest of America looked like. Pastor Kuns preached every evening against the evils of private ownership, competition and wars.

For the first time seeds of doubt are planted in the mind of "Little Mike" when a stranger visits the colony and he discovers that he is not a stranger but a former member of the colony who had left the colony for the outside world. This is a heart-warming family story but the human problems of the characters bring a message of universal importance.

The Week at Ottawa

Long the target for charges of inefficiency, the Senate snapped back at the Commons last week and charged that elected body with indulging in "horseplay" and engaging in vote-catching activities.

The upper chamber went so far as to introduce a motion which would set up a joint parliamentary committee to investigate the efficiency of the lower chamber and to see whether ways could be found to make it a better place in which the work of governing Canada could be carried out.

It is almost certain that the Senate would never have gone this far in assaulting the Commons if it was not for the fact that the Commons "started it first."

Earlier in the week, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, introduced a motion which was later defeated asking that a committee be set upper chamber. Prime Minister St. Laurent rejected the motion as indicating that it was in the nature of a want-of-confidence in government policy.

Although Mr. Drew's motion was soundly defeated, Senator G. H. Ross would not let sleeping dogs lie. He started the ball rolling to get Senate approval to his motion for a committee to study "suggested constitutional changes affecting the House of Commons, including the better functioning of the House of Commons in our parliamentary system."

It was left for Mr. and Senator Ross, a former Commons member who represents Alberta in the upper chamber, got support from none other than Senator John T. Flagg, Progressive Conservative leader in the chamber, who represents in the Senate the position that Mr. Drew represents in the Commons.

Senator Flagg agreed with Senator Ross that a lot of "horseplay" goes on in the Commons and went a little further. He called the Commons a "merry-go-round" of talk. He did not want to mention names but he knew of some people in the Commons who spoke 700 times in one session. That was the kind of thing that had to be stopped. If he had his way, every member of the Commons would be barred for life from becoming a member of the upper chamber.

Kitchen ... Kinks

Good Ways with Veal

Veal is one meat which should be enjoyed more often. When well cooked to tender juiciness it will almost double for chicken.

Veal requires long, slow cooking and should never be served until well cooked. People who prefer rare roast beef should never compare veal with beef. The home economist of the Consumer Section, Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa, says of the opinion that veal is too often served under-cooked and is therefore fore tough and unappetizing. Such meat could never be popular with any family.

Because it lacks fat, veal requires the addition of a generous amount of fat to give it that good brown color and juiciness. The roast should be well covered with fat before roasting and basted as it cooks.

The mild flavor of veal allows variety in seasonings. Herbs such as thyme, parsley, rosemary or savory go well with veal but should be used with a light hand. Sometimes a little celery salt or a few grains of nutmeg will add distinction. Salt and pepper are standard seasonings, but paprika is better than black pepper with veal.

The following recipes have been tested and judged exceptionally good.

Stuffed Veal Steak

1/2 cup rice
3 cups boiling water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
3 tablespoons chopped onion
1 1/2 teaspoons chopped celery
1/2 teaspoon chopped parsley
1/2 cup chopped mushrooms
3 tablespoons fat
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 pounds veal steak, about half-inch thick

Cook rice in boiling salted water in a tender, about 20 minutes. Drain well. Sauté the onion, celery, parsley and mushrooms in the fat for a few minutes. Add drained rice. Spread steak with stuffing, sprinkle with pepper and beginning at one side of the steak, roll up like a jelly roll and tie securely in several places with string. Place on a rack in a roasting pan and bake in a moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F., 1 hour. Use dripping to make gravy. Yield: six servings.

Jellied Veal Loaf

2 1/2 pounds veal shank
2 quarts boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
A pinch of thyme
2 tablespoons gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
1 teaspoon chopped onion
1 hard-boiled egg
Simmer veal shank in water with salt, celery salt, parsley and thyme until meat falls from the bone—about 1 1/2 hours. Strain liquid and save (there should be 2 cups). Chop meat which covers about 15 square inches in cold water. Add to hot strained veal stock. Stir until dissolved. Set aside to chill. When it begins to stiffen, add onion and chopped meat. Slice egg and place slices in bottom of greased mould. Pour meat mixture over egg. Chill until firm. Unmould and serve on lettuce. Yield: eight to ten servings.

Veal Casserole

3 pounds knuckle or breast of veal
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons bacon fat
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 cup peas
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 cups canned tomatoes
Salt and pepper to taste
Remove bone and marrow and cut meat in small pieces. Combine flour, salt and pepper and roll pieces of meat in mixture. Melt fat in frying pan, add onion, peas and bay leaves. Cook for 5 minutes. Remove bay leaves. Arrange vegetables alternately in casserole with veal. Pour tomatoes over top. Cover and bake in a moderate oven at 325 degrees F. for 2 hours. Yield: six servings.

Pickering Fishing

INNISVILLE, Ont.—Pickering fishing in this Eastern Ontario district is expected to reach an all-time peak this season.

Sportmen from near and far flocking to this small village, 40 miles southwest of Ottawa, to watch the wall-eyed fish make their run for the spawning beds on the upper stretches of the Mississippi River. The season opened May 14.

As far as the eye could reach, the entire shoals of the rapids were alive with the jumping, wildly-thrashing fish during the spawning season. They ranged from two to 10 pounds in weight.

Game Overseer Forrest Richardson of Perth, Ont., and two special investigators patrolled the river to prevent any interference with the migrating fish and a special "watching area" was set up to ensure that none of the fish were taken illegally by poachers. The fish were taken legally by poachers, but the Carleton Place Fish and Game Club started stocking the river with pickering fingerlings.

"Now the number of fish in the lake and river is anybody's guess. During the last 30 years there have been more than 5,000,000 fingerlings planted and each year an estimated 10 per cent of the thousands of eggs dropped by spawning fish reach legal limits."

The dark yellow color of the pickers cannot be mistaken for any other fish due to the milky, blind appearance of the eyes. They are night feeders and their food consists mainly of smaller fish.

In the United States the pickers are known as the wall-eyed pike while in Quebec the same fish is known as the "dore" and in some parts of Canada it is known as the perch-pike.

What Can One Do With 14 Trams?

JOHANNESBURG, June.—(C.P.)—Argents J. Keyser, a scrap metal merchant, is a man with a problem. Six months ago at an auction sale he bid $8 (194.80) each for three municipal trams, and $3 for 11 others, never thinking he would get them. He did—14 of them.

Now he can't get rid of them and the Johannesburg municipality wants to charge him storage space unless he removes them from the tram sheds.

The prospect of having their father bring them a tram home if they are good is keeping nine-year-old Bertha and five-year-old Rumanant on their best behavior.

"My big problem is moving them," said Mr. Keyser, who has bought a special trailer for the purpose. "It's tricky work. In some places I have to drive in the middle of the main road to avoid overhead lamps and wires."
"It's also a slow business because the trams are so heavy."

BOUND LAUNDRY
VANCOUVER.—(C.P.)—Australians are sending sound waves to do Canada's laundry. The device—an electro-sonic washing machine—uses sound waves instead of soap to clean clothes. It is one item in several tons of Australian products sent to the Canadian International Trade Fair at Toronto.

Wise men talk because they have something to say; fools because they wish to say anything.

Times change, even in baseball. Value is rest and an unimportant player may become the team's most valuable asset almost overnight.

Perhaps one of the greatest examples of this is the emergence of relief pitchers from the locked-down-upon class to social equals of any starting hurler. It was just a few years ago that a relief pitcher was classed either as a twirler just about at the end of his career, or a youngster who could mow down the batters for a few innings but then became easy meat. Then along came a team lefty who name has become synonymous with the world champion New York Yankees.

Joseph Francis Page, better known as Smokey Joe Page, in the last few seasons has earned baseball renown by going into a game when the starting pitcher has blown up. He had phenomenal success as a "fireman" and last year, for example, won 11 games and lost eight in relieving. Right now the 32-year-old southpaw commands the largest salary of any New York pitcher—$35,000.

What Page is to the American League, Jim Konstanty of the Philadelphia Phillies is fact becoming to the National League.

The bespectacled Konstanty moved up to the Phils from Toronto in the International circuit in 1948 and that year won one game without dropping any. But in 1949 the 23-year-old right-hander specialized in relieving and finished the season with a 9-5 record.

Terrific Pressure
At first glance a relief pitcher's job doesn't seem as tough as a starter's. But there's a terrific handicap and pressure riding on his shoulders every time he works—and that's often.

Suppose a team is leading 2-1 in the eighth. The leading team's pitcher gets into a hole. He may walk two men for example, with none out. The call goes out to the bullpen for a relief hurler. That pitcher must be exceedingly good, even if only for a short time, to retire three men without permitting the tying and winning runs from crossing the plate. The pressure is on him. He must pitch his team out of the hole the starter has pitched them into.

A good example of the value of a relief pitcher was shown recently in a game between the Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics. The Yanks were leading 2-0 in the ninth when the A's suddenly pounced on pitcher Ed Lopat and put a man on second and third with a single and a double.

Two were out at the time. In came Page to take over on the mound and be thrown just one pitch.

But that pitch was one of his specialties—one that the batter couldn't do much with—and the hitter, Pete Suder, lifted a soft fly to centerfield to end the game.

These men are needed right from the start of the season to the end. And they're needed often. Page in the Yanks' first 17 games alone took part in seven. In the 14 innings he pitched he allowed 10 hits, struck out 10 and walked only three.

Konstanty worked just as hard. He pitched in eight of the Phils' first 21 matches. In the 11 innings he worked he allowed only nine hits, fanned nine and passed only two.

Family Have Only
Fifteen Minutes
To Evacuate Home

Winnipeg, Man.—When the flood waters broke the dikes along the Red River, John C. Quesau, his wife, Arlie and their two children had 15 minutes to evacuate their home in the River-view suburb of Winnipeg.

As they managed to take out was one change of clothing, and then they waded through waist-deep water to safe ground.

Today Mrs. Quesau and her two children are in Heatstip, Manitoba, while Mr. Quesau is driving his truck on flood duty.

Their house, like hundreds of others in the district, is now deep in the Red River. The living room has six feet of water in it. The dining room table and chairs are floating up against the ceiling. In what was once the back yard there is a garage which was washed there from some other house, and out in the river which was once their street, the usual debris of a flood stricken city floats by.

In this neighborhood the Red River usually makes a long lazy bend, and the suburb of Riverview lies in this bend. Today the ten-mile an hour current cuts right through the district and only the strongest boats with powerful motors are allowed to enter the water.

Row after row of stark and empty houses, sticking out of the water without a living soul in them is the present picture of Riverview. Only house-owners needing urgent clothing and necessities are allowed to enter their homes, and they are equipped with life vests by the Navy.

Mr. Quesau sat at Naval headquarters waiting for the navy boat to take him to his home. He needed clothes for his two children since they had been carried from the house in their sleepers.

He said that he bought his house during the war and valued it at $5,000. His furniture and all his personal belongings will be a total loss, and, like thousands of others, he has not the necessary money to rehabilitate his family.

The Manitoba Flood Relief Fund will look after Mr. Quesau and many like him. It has been set up in Winnipeg to help all flood victims, and donations can be made to any bank in Canada, or sent direct to Manitoba Flood Relief Fund, Winnipeg.

COLONIAL STRUCTURE
HALIFAX—(CP)—The 123-year-old home of Richard John Uniacke, attorney-general of Nova Scotia from 1797 to 1839, is being restored by the provincial government. Architectural experts describe the building as "one of the most interesting examples of colonial architecture to be found in Canada."

Holdup Death

Following an abortive bank holdup in Montreal, in which an RCMP constable was fatally wounded, police during the week-end arrested a man with a bullet wound in his arm.

Constable Alex Gaiman, an unarmed member of a bank protective detail, was on his way home when he heard a shot in a downtown branch of the Bank of Toronto. He made a dash for the bank and was shot three times by the lone thief, one of the bullets hitting him just above the heart. Despite repeated blood transfusions, the 31-year-old constable was so weak it was impossible to operate to remove the slugs. He died 35 hours later. Another bullet felled bank manager S. G. Buckley with a minor leg wound. The man was arrested in Montreal's east end after it was believed that the bandit suffered a wound from his own gun as he shot his way to freedom.

Just when her life was brightest, Just when her hopes were best, God called her from among us To a home of eternal rest.

Mrs. W. Taylor Attends Library Short Course

Mrs. W. C. Taylor, who was a delegate from Wainwright to the Library Short Course at the University of Alberta, reports that there were 21 students in attendance. The farthest south point represented was Olds, the west Beaverlodge, the east Wainwright and north Fairview. Classes opened every morning at 9 a.m. and continued throughout the day till 4:30. Various librarians from city libraries gave courses in such subjects as "Book Selection", "Boys and Girls Work", "Library Finance" and "Book Repair". Tours were made through the Edmonton Library and the Legislative Library. The students were guests at the annual meeting and banquet of the Alberta Librarians Association.

They were housed at Pembina Hall and took their meals at Athabasca Hall. In addition to the information received from the lectures it was an inspiration to meet other librarians and obtain much advice and many valuable suggestions during casual conversations. If a different delegate was sent to these courses every year, in time it would serve to give the whole community an insight into the broad picture of library work throughout the province.

Paradise Valley United Church Notes

The W.A. is holding a Strawberry Tea in the Church basement on June 8th. Serving will be from 1:30 to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. until show time.
The boys from 10 to 17 years are planning a Father and Son Banquet in the Church basement on June 13th at 8:30 p.m. The boys work in the community should be expanded and this occasion will be the first step in organization. Mr. A. O. Aalberg M.L.A. will be the guest speaker and we know he will have something of interest to fathers and their sons. The Trail Rangers will have tickets.
Here are the most representative answers to the three questions discussed by the Young People.
1. Do teen-agers have too much freedom? Freedom is necessary to learn to carry responsibility, but freedom is abused by many teen-agers to today. They have too much freedom.
2. Are parents unnecessarily strict? When they restrict our freedom it is usually for our own good. Parents in this district are not too strict; in fact some are not strict enough.
3. What would you do with a 15 year old who habitually stays out too late? The young person would be corrected by the restricting of freedom and privilege with increasing severity until the desired respect for the rule was achieved.
The service of the 25th Anniversary of the United Church of Canada will be held on June 11th at the regular church hours.

Winners in the Kitscoty Divisional Track Meet

Friday, June 2nd was a beautiful day for the big annual track meet and football tournament of the Vermilion School Division. Following the terrible winstons of the previous day, this was indeed miraculous.
Well over one thousand children and four hundred adults attended the meet. The track was in fine shape, and the spectators generally showed careful preparation. The village of Kitscoty is to be congratulated for the effort put forward in maintaining these grounds.
The Kitscoty Band was in attendance during the day and performed very creditably. Their booths were well patronized for the day was warm and children do get hungry and thirsty.
It would be much too long to give a complete list of winners in the various events. The athletes scoring the highest number of points in Judo is awarded a medal. The school scoring the highest number of points in the track meet competition is awarded a trophy. The school scoring the highest number of points in the football games is awarded a trophy.
Grand Aggregate—Vermilion.
A Boys' Football—Kitscoty.
B Girls' Football—Kitscoty.
B Boys' Football—McLaughlin-Riverview (6 innings—tied—called for darkness).

Paradise Valley F.U.A.

The regular meeting of the Paradise Valley F.U.A. was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Wolfe on May 24th. Mr. Kitching the resident in the chair.
Thirteen members were present, as well as two representatives from the Hope Valley Local. The main item of business was planning the Farmers' Holiday Picnic which is to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Wolfe on Friday, June 16th. The Hope Valley Local is combining with the P.V. local to make the picnic bigger and better than it has ever been.
All farmers and their families are invited to come and enjoy themselves, and visit with their neighbors.
The picnic will be a full program of games for young and old, horse shoe, softball games, as well as swimming, water polo, etc.
Tea and coffee will be served at noon and at supper time.
Some of the more important items dealt with was the matter of the continuance of the A.L.C. Program, also the fact that many farmers are doing not only themselves a disservice, but also every other farmer who milks, by buying margarine. Another matter discussed was the higher local taxation and the excessive repair and maintenance cost of the road.
The reply from the municipal council to our resolution regarding Toad Flax Control, stated that the municipal council was turning over to the Agricultural Service Board. Apparently passed the buck.
The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. Kitching on Friday, June 23rd at 8:30 p.m.
After the meeting Mrs. Wolfe served a very enjoyable lunch assisted by the other ladies.

LIGHTNING STARTS FIRE AT CHAUVIN MONDAY

Lightning struck at the Reinhart home on the old Herbert place in town on Monday night, and set fire to a garage, which was completely destroyed. The bolt was of such violence that it also hit the house, knocking things around in general, and bowling over a couple of the occupants. Fortunately no-one suffered severe injury, but they were considerably shaken up by their narrow escape.

MARSDEN

The Marsden Board of Trade Sports held on May 31st was well arranged and managed and in spite of the adverse weather a good crowd attended. Baseball was the chief attraction and drew ten teams. Winners were: Lloydminster first; Cukinife, second and Lashburn, third. In the junior baseball Marsden took first and Lloydminster second. The ladies softball prizes went to Cukinife and Lashburn.

Prizes for decorated bicycles went to Sylvia Halyk and Bonnie Swenarchuk of the girls and Dwayne Proctor for the boys. The winners in the bicycle race were: Billy Armstrong and Jim Loy. The Union sound car was on hand to assist with the program.

The W.A. of the United Church served supper in the old lumber office, which was enjoyed by a great number of those present. The huge quantities of good food donated by the members and kind friends of the W.A. were pretty well disposed of.

Due to the wind it was found to be impossible to play Bingo but other games were well patronized. The fire dance followed with music by the Rhythm kipes. The Board of Trade is complimented on their efficient handling of the sports and another year may they be more fortunate as to weather.

Next Sunday, June 11th a special service marking the 25th anniversary of the United Church of Canada will be held in the Marsden Church. At 4:30 a joint gathering of the field will be held to listen to the broadcast from Toronto. This will be followed by a picnic supper in the basement. Robert Johnston Passes On After Long Illness

After three years of suffering and putting up a valiant fight for his life, Bob Johnston of Edgerton, formerly of Johnstone of Edgerton, family, known to his friends and neighbors as "Corky", passed away at the Wainwright Hospital on June 1st at the age of nineteen years and eight months. Bob's charming personality and irrepressible sense of humor made him a host of friends wherever he went. None of those with whom he came in contact will soon forget the courage and fortitude which he displayed throughout his trying illness and his thoughtfulness for others in the midst of his own suffering.

Bob's family are old residents of the district—his grandfather, H. B. Ker, died in Wainwright on July 1, 1909, when he was here from Ontario looking over the farming possibilities. His mother the former Mabel Ker, came out in 1911. His father, Otis Johnston, who died in the Wainwright Hospital four years ago this month, arrived in the Edgerton district in 1916. Bob leaves to mourn his loss, his mother and one brother Leslie, both of Edgerton.

Funeral services were held in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Edgerton with Rev. Mr. Ellway in charge. Interment was in the family plot in the Edgerton Cemetery. The pallbearers, all neighbor boys, were Don Guy, Donald Taylor, Roderic Mahoney, Bill McLeish, Vic Tennant and Ted Kelly. Flowers and donations to various funds in sympathy and loving memory were received from:
